Investment Highlights

All equity markets enjoyed positive returns in the second half of the year which resulted in solid gains for 2006. Bond markets also rallied strongly in the second half of the year and contributed to the Contribution Fund's strong return. SPP's year end return was 12.5 per cent compared to a benchmark of 11.5 percent.

Canadian Equities

The S&P/TSX Composite Index returned 17.3 per cent in the year, the fourth straight year of double digit returns. Most of the positive returns came in the first and fourth quarters with the middle six months seeing a weakness in oil, natural gas and base metals. The strongest performing sector was Materials, followed by Information Technology. The Energy sector, the driver of the Canadian equity market in 2005 ended with year in eighth place (out of ten sectors). Although oil prices hit record highs in July, they were at a seventeen month low by late November. Dividend payers were in favour as interest rates fell, especially after the Canadian government changed the tax treatment of income trusts. However, income trusts were underperforming even before the federal Finance Minister's announcement due to their heavy exposure to the oil and gas industries. Saskatchewan Pension Plan's (SPP) Canadian equity portfolio returned 20.7 per cent for the year.

The rates of return used in this article exclude fees to allow valid comparison to benchmarks.

SPP Beneficiaries

Everyone must name a beneficiary when they become a member of SPP. An SPP beneficiary is a person(s) or organization who will receive the SPP account balance at the member's death. When choosing a beneficiary it is important to consider how that choice fits with the overall estate plan and what tax implications a payment may have for the beneficiary.

SPP can pay out death benefits to a beneficiary in three different ways. The option explained in this newsletter is the Lump Sum or cash payout. The beneficiary will receive a cheque for the balance of the account, less withholding tax. Canada Revenue Agency (CRA)

Account Balance	Tax Rate
$5,000 or less	10%
$5,001 to $15,000	20%
More than $15,000	30%

requires withholding tax to be submitted by SPP on behalf of the beneficiary. The tax rate schedule is shown in the table above. The beneficiary must claim the full payment as income in the year in which it is received and will be issued a T4A by SPP.

If you name your spouse as beneficiary there are transfer options available for the death benefits. These options will be outlined in the May and October newsletters. If you have any questions about your beneficiary in the meantime, please call SPP. ❖

U.S. Equities

The S&P 500 returned 15.8 per cent in US$ or 15.4 per cent in C$. After hitting 28-year highs in the first half of 2006, the loonie fell in the second quarter to end the year flat at 85.9 cents. Currency, for the first time in a while, had an insignificant impact on returns. U.S. markets enjoyed a strong 2006 with upbeat earnings reports and low energy prices pushing the Dow to record highs. All ten sectors posted positive returns for the year with Telecom being the top performer and Health Care the worst. After seventeen consecutive quarter-point increases in interest rates, the Federal Reserve left rates on hold in July at 5.25 percent. SPP's U.S. equity portfolio returned 16.0 per cent for the year.

Non-North American Equities

Non-North American equities, measured by the MSCI EAFE Index, soared 25.9 per cent in Canadian dollars and 16.5 per cent in local currency terms. The positive returns were broad based as all countries and sectors in the Index were positive. All currencies in the Index appreciated versus the Canadian dollar except for the Japanese yen and the Hong Kong dollar and all sectors in the Index achieved double-digit returns in the year. SPP's non-North American equity portfolio returned 28.7 per cent for the year.

Fixed Income

The Canadian bond market, as measured by the Scotia Capital Universe Bond Index, gained 4.1 per cent in 2006. After raising interest rates in their first four sessions of the year, both the Bank of Canada and the U.S. Federal Reserve halted hikes in the last four sessions. The overnight rate in Canada ended the year at 4.25 per cent while the key rate in the U.S. finished at 5.25 per cent. Commodity prices began coming down late in the summer, reducing investor fears of inflation. The bond market responded very favorably to this development. However, the fixed income market slowed tremendously relative to the equity market. SPP's bond portfolio earned 4.5 per cent.

Total assets in the contribution fund were $190.4 million at year end. Further information on investments can be obtained from the Plan office.

Contribution Fund Benchmark Change

The Board of Trustees reviews the Contribution Fund Investment Policy on an annual basis and has amended the benchmark for equities from 50 per cent to 55 per cent as of January 1, 2007. The change is in response to the removal of the 30 per cent foreign content limit. It may result in somewhat higher volatility in the fund's annual returns and is expected to produce a slight increase in the fund's average return over the long term. ❖

Small Business Pension Plan

Saskatchewan Pension Plan's strategy is to reach new markets and in 2006 added staff to focus on small business pension plans. While working with businesses, non-profit and community organizations, SPP is raising awareness about its availability to businesses and organizations as a way to enhance their benefits package.

During 2006 the Plan worked with a wide variety of businesses and industries to promote the importance of saving for retirement. Some of the key areas of focus were the trucking industry, daycare centers, rural businesses and artists. By traveling through the province and meeting with people, SPP staff are encouraging businesses and organizations to take a proactive approach to attracting and retaining employees.

The SPP Employer Plan is designed to work for all types of businesses. Contributions can be made at any time, in any amount up to $600 per year. Employer's can contribute on behalf of employees, or simply offer the plan for employees to contribute on their own through payroll deduction. There is also the option of employers matching their employee's contributions. One of the most attractive attributes of the Employer Plan is the low cost and minimal administration. Small business owners are extremely busy with the operation and maintenance of their business and are not looking for additional work so the SPP employer plan is a good fit. For further information about the Saskatchewan Pension Plan, Employer Plan, contact Linda at 1-800-667-7153 or email her at info@saskpension.com. ❖
